December 2018

Hello brethren and a warm Happy New Year from all of us here in Bonaire.

We're thanking God for allowing us to see a brand new year and blessing us.

We had a quiet last few weeks of the year here; many of our regulars, especially the children, went away for their vacations. So, it was just a few of us here, but people are now starting to trickle back little by little. We had a great first worship at the beginning of the year where most of us was here. It was a great worship and we hope that we can grow and get better together from here on out.

But, we are happy that Luigi was here for the last few weeks and worshipped with us as he spent his holiday break from Police academy here.

He just left to go back to Curacao this week to continue his training. Please keep him in your prayers, not only for his training, but for his Christianity while there.

My wife Crystal is leaving to visit a friend in France this week. She will be gone for an entire month to assist a friend of hers who is going through similar chemotherapy treatment as Crystal did, since her friend doesn't have anyone to help.

Please pray for a safe trip for her, that she may stay safe and come back soon, as some people here will miss her. She has assimilated here in Bonaire well and people quite like her, and so, she will be missed.

We thank God for this year, but also for last year, which was a struggle, especially internally for the church, but we are keeping on. Things seem better and we hope that what we went through may allow us to continue to grow in Christ and in love for each other.

We hope you have been having a good year, brethren and we thank God for your continued support and prayers for us here in Bonaire. We, likewise, offer prayers for your well-being.
